Dear Mrs. Dangerfield:

Thank you very much for your letter and for the enclosed pamphlets and publications of the European-Atlantic Group which I have looked over with interest.

As you can appreciate, I will be unable to make any definite plans to write an article until my present job is over. However, I appreciate your thoughtfulness in writing to me and I shall certainly keep this in mind.

I am sorry that I missed seeing you in London and perhaps we will have an early opportunity to get together. I might add that I have a very pleasant memory of our meeting in New York in 1948.

With kindest regards,

Sincerely,

SIGNED

Friday Midnight

Dear Mr. Dulles,

I heard from our mutual old friend,  today that you were in London, and hasten to send you my greetings and regards, hoping that you may remember our breakfasttime meeting in New York way back in 1948, when  so kindly introduced me to you?

STAT

Since then I have been in touch with your office whenever I was in the States -- the last time in 1958 on my return from staying with Chiang-Kai-Shek in Formosa -- and your late lamented Brother was good enough to allow me to be in touch with him and to send a message to our Review -- the latest copies of which I enclose -- which I hope may be of some interest to you, as ours is, I think, the only journal of its kind at present in the English language -- and is dedicated to promoting European-Atlantic relations, as is our group, details of which I attach.

If you could ever have the time or possibility to send us a contribution for publication on American views of Europe today, we should be very honored to publish it -- and if there is any chance of seeing you while you are in London, I should be very gratified indeed.

Yours sincerely,

/s/ Elma Dangerfield
